JUNG & SHAH COME BACK IN A HUGE WAY

To Win

THE MAPGA SPRING FLING

Nearly 90 junior golfers from Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New York and Washington D.C. participated in the 13th Annual MAPGA Spring Fling at Laurel Hill Golf Club in Lorton, VA, host to the 2013 U.S. Amateur Public Links Championship. Junior golfers Sam Jung of Centreville, VA and Delaney Shah of N. Potomac, MD won the Overall Boys and Overall Girls Championships. Jung came from six back to win the championship by two strokes and Shah came back from three back to win by three.

Jung shot a two-day 145 (3-over par) to win the Overall Boys Championship by two strokes over Brandon Yoon of Brambleton, VA and Graham Hutchinson of Bethesda, MD. Jung used a back nine 32 that included three birdies and no bogeys. Jung had a total of four birdies and an eagle on the day. Taso Scilaris of Bethesda, MD won the Boys 16-18 Division shooting a final round of 72.

Some other great rounds today came from Teagan Stephenson of Frederick, MD who shot a 2 under 69 and had no bogeys on the day. Not close behind was Brandon Yoon of Brambleton, VA. Yoon shot a 1 under 70 but had six birdies on the day.

Delaney Shah shot a two-day total of 145 (3-over par) to win by three strokes over two-time defending champion Julie Luo. Shah closed with birdies on 16 and 18 to shoot a back nine score of 35. Another great round was from Sirena Walsh from Chantilly, VA who shot a 73 after shooting a 77 the first day. Walsh finished in a tie for third place. Shah has verbally committed to University of Louisville and Luo has committed to Yale University.

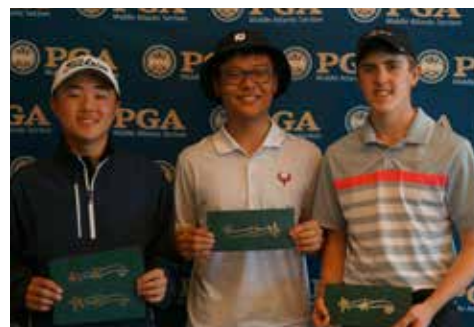

Diana Domenech from Richmond, VA shot a two day total of 160 (81-79) to win the Girls 12-14 Division and Nikita Gubenko from Great Falls, VA won the Boys 13 and under division shooting a two-day total of 147.

Players had to battle tough weather conditions both days as the winds were gusting around 20 mph the first day and rain throughout the second day. A special thanks to Laurel Hill's PGA Director of Golf Gene Orrico, PGA and his entire staff, as well as the tremendous efforts of Superintendent Rick Owens and his grounds staff. This was the third year in a row that Laurel Hill has hosted the Spring Fling and the event couldn't have run more smoothly, despite the bad weather.

Congratulations to all the competitors that played the MAPGA Spring Fling. Many of them will be playing throughout the summer in the MAPGA Junior Tour which hosts 29 one-day tournaments and a 36-hole finale at the end of the season.

The Eastern Shore Yacht & Country Club

Nestled among the pines and oaks on the lower Delmarva peninsula, the Eastern Shore Yacht & Country Club, founded in 1960, offers an Ed Ault designed 18-hole, par 70 golf course that allows golfers of all abilities the opportunity to play the game as it was meant to be played: no required tee time, unhurried, easy to walk or ride a cart if you prefer, smaller greens, well-placed hazards and million dollar views from its 125 acres at the mouth of Pungoteague Creek. Last fall a Short Course was created, allowing those who want a "gentler game" to enjoy the course, including those golfers just beginning or players who hit with less distance.

On September 2, 1961, a Grand Opening was held and the first nine holes of the golf course were officially opened for play on September 23, 1961. The second nine holes were officially opened for play on June 17, 1965. The Club hosted the 1967 Virginia State Open with many leading professionals including Tom Strange, Claude King and past PGA Champion Chandler Harper; the tournament winner. In addition to the golf course, there are two lighted Har-Tru tennis courts, a swimming pool and baby pool with certified lifeguards and dock facilities with annual rental boat slips. The Club's summer sailing class program is beyond compare. During the summer, the Club buzzes with golf and tennis tournaments, geared to both fun-loving and serious players, poolside parties, inside and outside dining, live music, and a variety of activities too numerous to name. With the Clubhouse overlooking Pungoteague Creek, the club is the focal point for social and recreational activities for its members and the extended community.

The Eastern Shore Yacht & Country Club facility is considered one of the Shore's premiere locations for private events for Members and Non-Members alike. With its fine dining and a substantial dance floor it is a favorite for weddings, receptions, charity and business events. The Club is also well known as desired locations for Charity Golf Tournaments.

UMES' SIFORD Scholarship FUND

has high-profile support

The University of Maryland Eastern Shore has launched a new scholarship to support PGA golf management students with a pair of $10,000 donations.

Tiger Woods recently sent UMES a personal gift in honor of the late Charlie Sifford, whom he idolized growing up. A week later, the PGA TOUR matched Woods' $10,000.

"Without Charlie Sifford, and the other pioneers who fought to play, I may not be playing golf," Woods said. "My Pop may not have picked up the game, and maybe I wouldn't have either."

The PGA TOUR designated its gift also be used to acknowledge the passing of Sifford, the first black man to play regularly on TOUR in the early 1960s alongside the game's greats of that era, including Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus.

A member of the World Golf Hall of Fame, Sifford died Feb. 3 at the age of 92. The late golfer's family established The Sifford Fund as a tribute to his enduring legacy as a sports pioneer.

Sifford, according to Charlie Zink, Co-Chief Operating Officer of the PGA TOUR, "was a trailblazer and true role model who displayed tremendous dignity, courage and spirit throughout his career."

RAY TARANTO WITH MR. SIFORD

"He provided inspiration to aspiring players of diverse backgrounds and helped change our sport for the better. We are pleased to help continue his legacy by supporting this wonderful program at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore and assisting those who are passionate about pursuing a career in the golf industry," Zink said.

UMES President Juliette Bell called both donations a fitting tribute to a man admired for not only his skills as a golfer, but his steadfast determination to set a good example for those who followed in his footsteps.

The contributions, Bell said, "will help support deserving students in their pursuit of careers in the golf industry."

UMES is among 19 universities with a PGA of America-accredited golf management program, where students earn a bachelor's degree in a specialized field of hospitality-tourism studies with an emphasis on developing golf skills and knowledge of the industry.

UMES is the lone historically black institution offering this unique degree and is making important strides training the next generation of golf industry professionals who will diversify the game.

UMES hosted a reception Nov. 24 on Capitol Hill in Sifford's honor following a White House ceremony where he received the Presidential Medal of Freedom from President Barack Obama. Sifford, Palmer and Nicklaus are the only golfers to receive the nation's highest civilian honor.

That event, where Sifford and his extended family met UMES students – many of them African-Americans pursuing careers in the golf industry – sparked a conversation about how the university could partner with Sifford to help those inspired by his story.

Billy Dillon, UMES golf management program director, said students came away from meeting Sifford with a greater understanding of what he meant to the golf industry.

"It was a special moment for a lot of them," Dillon said. "Some knew about what Mr. Sifford accomplished, and when others learned why he was being recognized, I think they realized the importance of the moment."

UMES' PGA golf management program currently enrolls 44 students, more than half of whom are women and minorities. Upon graduation, they will be positioned for careers in recreational or competitive golf, business, marketing, media and hospitality. "The gifts from Mr. Woods and the PGA TOUR, which represents a broad spectrum of golfers following the footsteps Dr. Sifford boldly trod many years ago, is an important boost to our program," Bell said.

COACH'S CHALKBOARD

MOST BLESSED SACRAMENT GOLF PROGRAM IS A HUGE ASSET TO LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL PROGRAMS

MBS is a Catholic school in Berlin, Maryland, which serves students in the eight sponsoring parishes of the region in grades pre-kindergarten to 8th. The primary goal of the school's athletic department is to introduce their students to Interscholastic Athletics, while promoting the development of the student athletes. Several years ago, Ocean City Golf Club Head Professional Buddy Sass did a wonderful job getting the golf program off the ground and building a very respectable and instructional program for kids to enjoy in grades 6-8.

Three years ago, Josh Esworthy, golf professional and owner of 19th Hole Golf Getaway in Ocean City (www.OC19.com) took over the helm and continued where Buddy left off with the same philosophies and enthusiasm for teaching kids the game of golf. Coach Esworthy's main objective is to expose the children to the sport and prepare them for possibly playing at the high school level; however, he also recognizes the fringe benefits of how golf can bring families together as a regular outdoor activity.

COACH ESWORTHY brings an impressive resume to the program, including serving as 1st Assistant at Ocean City Golf Club for almost ten years under Sass, and then serving as the Head Pro at Lighthouse Sound for three years in which he hired Scot Dailey who is the current Head Golf Professional at Glen Riddle Golf. Esworthy predicates his coaching philosophies on teaching the fundamentals of the game starting with balance, grip, and the swing. Once the kids have begun to grove their swings he instills the qualities of character, respect, honesty, and golf course etiquette, while emphasizing the importance of pace of play. The team currently practices and plays at River Run Golf Course in Berlin, in which he is very grateful for their generosity towards the junior golfers. Josh recognizes that every kid in the program brings something special to the team. Some may have more knowledge of the game and its complex set of rules, while others may have an innate sportsmanship attitude of a true gentleman or lady.

His future goals are to possibly expand the program by adding new elements, such as adding a spring season in addition to the existing fall season, in hopes to increase participation throughout the school. "It's a lot of fun working with the kids and very rewarding to witness their progress throughout the season" states Coach Esworthy. "The more kids I can expose to the game, that I have embraced my entire life, the stronger the program will be." For more information about the Most Blessed Sacrament Golf Program please contact Coach Esworthy at joseph.esworthy@gmail.com.

THE ROOKERY SUPPORTS THE ALZHEIMER'S ASSOCIATION + THE FIRST TEE...

CART BY CART!

If you've been to The Rookery South in the past year, you may have noticed a couple of colorful carts among the plain white ones. These carts aren't just fancy colors, though. The colors go much deeper.

In the month of June you'll find people donning purple shirts and bracelets in support of Alzheimer's Awareness Month. The Neurological Disease affects 1-in-9 Americans over the age of 65 and nearly 44 million people worldwide.

The Rookery's purple cart allows patrons the opportunity to support the Alzheimer's Association. The Alzheimer's Association is the world's leading voluntary health organization in Alzheimer's care. For 36 years they have provided top notch care and support for those suffering from the disease. They have also made it their mission to push Alzheimer's research forward and have been a part of every major advancement in the past 30 years.

The Rookery's other cart is green and if you look closely you'll see it's actually grass that graces the sides of the cart. This cart supports The First Tee; which helps young children and teaches them life skills through the game of golf. To date they have helped 10.5 million children gain the confidence and skills to be more successful. The First Tee started in 1997 as a way to make golf more accessible to young people and later evolved into a mentorship program that truly impacts the lives of children for the better. The two carts can be rented for an extra $5 donation. All of the proceeds go toward the foundations the carts represent. If things go well The Rookery may add more of these carts in the future. Come on out to the Rookery South and support one of these great organizations!

Appropriate and fun for all ages, FootGolf is the innovative combination of soccer and golf. The principals of FootGolf are similar to golf—but instead of clubs and golf balls; you use your feet and soccer balls. "FootGolf is a great sport for all ages and abilities. It offers an opportunity for individuals to become comfortable with golf in a fun, different way," said Abby Messick, LGPA T&CP Head Golf Professional at River Marsh Golf Club. "We are excited to be one of the first destinations in the region to introduce this sport." The rules of FootGolf are similar to traditional golf. Players take turns taking shots for the hole. Balls are played where they lie and must be kicked with a single movement. Each hole will have a par and a scorecard. To accommodate FootGolf, the first four holes of the River Marsh Golf course are condensed into nine holes with special FootGolf temporary greens installed. Staying to true to its Eastern Shore locale, there will be a bushel crab basket, large enough to accommodate a standard sized soccer ball.

In addition to FootGolf, Hyatt Regency Chesapeake Bay offer several ways to engage aspiring golfers to get out on its championship course, rated one of Golf Weekly's "Best Courses You Can Play" in Maryland. Other fun golf programs include Night Golf, a glow-in-the-dark putting contest; Birdies & Brews, which includes a beer tasting at Reale Revival Brewing Company; Driving Range Happy Hour; the 4-Hole Family Loop Program; and SNAG (Starting New At Golf), a youth program for the youngest golfers.

The FootGolf drop-in weekly league starts Monday, March 23 at 5 p.m. A round takes between one and half to two hours to complete. It is open to both guests and local players for $20/person. The sport is available daily upon request in the late afternoon and early evening. FootGolf is also a great option for charity fundraisers, wedding parties and corporate groups. For more information, please call River Marsh Golf Club at 410.901.6396.

CONGRATULATIONS JORDAN SPIETH & UNDER ARMOUR

SHORE UP WITH THE GAME COACH

U\GOLF

CARSON LOVETT, MA SPORT PSYCHOLOGY

Congratulations 2015 Masters Tournament Champion Jordan Spieth, and thank you for revealing the perfect combination of youth and wisdom needed to maximize performance at any age. Spieth receives praise for being exceptionally mature and focused on the course, and has been called a 45 year old in a 21 year old body of Armour, Under Armour. He is technical and imaginative, and visibly in control of the essential balance between left and right brain command, a key to victory in all sports, especially in pursuit of the green jacket at Augusta.

Within each swing of the golf club and every round from tee to green, there exists an optimal ratio of electrical activity in the brain. In theory, the novice thinks too much, an overstimulation of a cerebral zone. Over time, the mental seesaw levels as the athlete learns to handle the rigors of competition. By 45, the golfer has a greater understanding of the psychology of sport, and the challenge to maintain the form and spirit of the 21 year old increases at a variable rate.

Jordan Speith oozes the supreme confidence of a budding phenom undaunted by obstacles and immune to failure. Youthful and talented, Spieth plays with proficiency built on success, the recipe for skill development at every stage. Creating a learning environment full of achievable goals promotes growth and supports the natural progression practice encourages. With age, experience lessens apprehension, confidence swells and golfing feels more like playing a game; and therein lies the wisdom of youth. Golf is a glorious game, and during the inevitable ups and downs of sports, remember being young: Get up as fast as you can; enjoy being up; plan to stay up.

YOUR PATH TO PAR

RICHARD ROBINSON, INSTRUCTOR
THE ORIGINAL GOLF SCHOOL

Are you a bold risk taker? Risk reward design is a prevalent design feature of the modern golf course. The par 5 holes on the back nine of Augusta National are classic examples. One bold shot provides opportunity for glory or disaster. Risk reward design creates a near equal chance of success or failure. It tests judgement and offers choice. We typically see risk reward as attempting a long carry over a hazard in the quest to reach a par five in two, or to insure a short approach to a par four. In fact, there is an element of risk reward in every shot. One way to better scores, is to make better risk reward decisions.

The foundation for good shot making decisions is to know your carry distances and flight pattern with each club. If you can achieve some consistency in distance and direction control, you can begin to play a strategically effective game and improve your score, even if you do not improve your shot making skill. One way to test this ability is to play a round with fewer clubs. Do not use your driver; rather take your best long fairway approach club for shots over 175 yards, your best club for 150 yard shots, your favorite from 100 yards, and a putter. You may surprise yourself.

Fewer clubs requires better planning and more imaginative shot making. Keeping the ball in play, avoiding penalties, eliminating the expectation of what you "should" do and focusing on what you can do, often leads to a surprisingly good score.

Beware of risky situations that tempt you to waste strokes. Dogleg holes, short par 5's under 500 yards, short par fours under 350 yards, pins positioned behind bunkers or near the edge of greens, are often illusions of opportunity. It rarely pays to cut a dogleg hole. If you can hit it long enough to cut the dog leg, you can afford to play a safer line and make a slightly longer approach. Short par 5 holes give you a chance to reach the green in two and make a two putt birdie. But, be sure the green will hold a long range approach. Often, such holes have shallow contoured greens and bunkering that severely penalize a less than perfect approach. Short par 4 holes are similar risks. Unless the fairways are wide and hazards few, the temptation to drive on or near the hole often has a lower chance of success than hitting a mid-iron down the fairway and a short iron approach for an easy green in regulation. Shots hit to the center of any green, usually provide one putt opportunities no matter the pin position. Just place a ball in the center of the green during your next round and see for yourself how often this position offers the best reward for taking the least risk.

EWGA OPENS FIRST COLLEGIATE CHAPTER AT THE UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND EASTERN SHORE

"This is a milestone as we welcome UMES as the first collegiate chapter of the EWGA," says CEO Pam Swensen. "We anticipate this to be the first of many collegiate chapters to come. EWGA excels at creating opportunities for women to use golf personally and professionally. We are delighted to provide our collegiate members with leadership tools to be successful both on and off the course."

The chapter launch is part of UMES's 'Pink on the Green' initiative to get more women playing golf. On April 30, 2015, UMES will host an all campus event from 11AM - 2PM at its driving range to promote the game of golf to their students, faculty and staff. At noon, a ceremony with EWGA representatives and University dignitaries will culminate with the signing of the first collegiate Chapter Affiliation Agreement.

An early evening gathering for women in the community is also planned. Anyone interested in learning more about the game of golf is invited to the University driving range from 5-7 PM, April 30th. Golf professionals and EWGA leaders from the nearby EWGA Eastern Shore, Maryland Chapter will be present to talk about the many benefits of golf and upcoming learning and playing opportunities around the area.

"UMES is honored to partner with the EWGA in this pioneering effort to form a collegiate chapter on our campus," University President Juliette B. Bell said. "This is an innovative approach to diversifying the golf industry, which has been our motivation since our golf management program accepted its first students in 2008."

Also joining in this growth of the game celebration will be Ohio Golf Hall of Famer and former LPGA Tour player, Renee Powell. Powell, a recipient of an Honorary Doctorate of Public Service Degree from UMES, was awarded EWGA's 2002 Leadership Award recognizing her outstanding contributions to women's golf. Named the First Lady of Golf by the PGA in 2003, her history making continues, as she becomes one of the first female members of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews.

For more information about the EWGA and membership, visit ewga.com. For information on starting an EWGA Collegiate Chapter please contact chapters@myewga.com

TOOLS OF THE TRADE

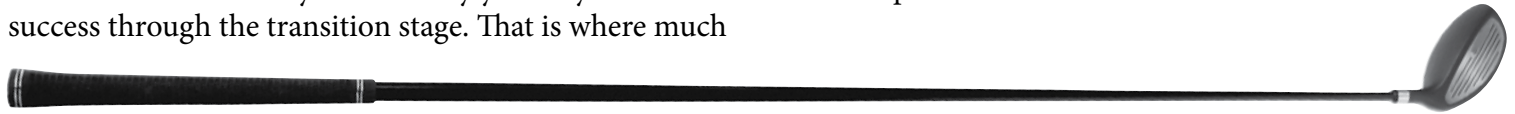

“MAXIMIZING YOUR LESSON”

BY STEVE MENZ

If you are a golfer that understands that getting instruction is the most efficient way to improve your game, consider yourself a rare player. Studies have shown that only about 12% of golfers utilize instruction to become better at their craft. The players that properly use their instruction are exponentially less. Here is what you can do to maximize your time with your teaching professional. Have realistic expectations of what you are trying to accomplish and have you and your pro set clear, attainable goals. Understand that in order for you to improve, there is a good chance you are going to have to change something in your swing that feels comfortable. This is a tough one, because it will require you to do something that feels out of the ordinary and initially you may not have success through the transition stage. That is where much instruction gets lost. A player trying to make a change will normally lose confidence in the improved movement and loss of confidence normally leads to poor results. Simply taking a lesson and going straight to the first tee is normally a recipe for disaster. It will lead to poor results on course and you will, with almost certainty, go back to your old swing. Attaining your desired goal requires determination and focus. It can take many repetitions and practice. If you have been playing a certain way for 20 years, a simple bucket of balls probably won't completely cure your ailment. Take the time and commit to the process, make the swing change become your natural movement and success will follow. Make instruction your most important tool of the trade.

CRIPPLE CREEK DONATES TO THE FIRST TEE OF DE

Generous members of Cripple Creek Country Club on Irons Lane near Millville recently donated an SUV full of golf clothes and equipment to the First Tee of Delaware.

The First Tee of Delaware provides young people with character-building lessons using golf as the platform. Through The First Tee, young people discover how skills essential to success on a golf course can also help them flourish in life.

WE ALL KNOW HOW IMPORTANT FLEXIBILITY IS IN GOLF, and in past articles I have pointed out how yoga can accomplish that. However, there are a few additional things you should know about yoga as it pertains to golf. First, while it can improve flexibility, golf still requires strength and endurance, so it shouldn't supercede resistance and aerobic training. Secondly, there are many forms of yoga; golfers should skip forms such as bikram (hot yoga) and vinyasa (power yoga) and concentrate on forms that emphasize awareness and quality of movement, two big components of golf. One such is hatha yoga. It is important to choose your instructor wisely; an ideal instructor should be familiar with the requirements of golf and should be willing to talk to you about your specific needs. The form of yoga you choose should involve isometric poses that work to stabilize body and core; also, slow pace makes you focus on body and kinesthetic awareness. A slow pace also helps you feel of your asymmetries and muscle imbalance. As you are aware, golf is predominantly a one-sided sport. Asymmetries in these areas can lead to various forms of injury, which can put you out of the game for a while.

BY PETE ZEMO

As I have said in the past, it pays to work with pros, whether on your game or in the shape of your body and musculature as it pertains to golf. If you don't know how to proceed, check with your local gym and check out their qualifications in that area. As always, do your research thoroughly.

THE CORE TRUTH

By Rob McDonald

You hear a lot about the golf pros on tour exercising to strengthen their core muscle groups. This is because those are the muscle groups they are using to create their golf swings. If I were to hand you an axe and said cut down that tree, you would naturally use your core muscle groups to carry away the axe and then use your legs and hips to drive the axe into the tree. It's the natural way to strike powerfully into the tree. But when handed a golf club, with the idea that you have to get under the ball, people forget about their core muscles and use their extremities. This is not a powerful motion.

First, our goal is not to get under the ball but to strike the back of the ball. Then, to feel your core muscles creating your back swing motion, picture your sternum in line with your belt buckle at address. Fold your arms across your chest and start by separating your sternum from your belt buckle (away from the target). You'll feel your belt buck moving after about 10 minutes of rotation on the swing clock. Your belt buckle is only moving because of the sternum. You should feel some tightness in your back muscles. This torqued position of the body is storing the power for your swing.

Now for the forward motion, separate your belt buckle from your sternum in the opposite direction. This will deliver the torqued body with the stored power through the impact zone. Your goal is not to undo the twisted body, but to deliver it through the impact zone. Let your rotation strike the ball, not your hands. It should feel like less effort but deliver a more solid, powerful contact position through the ball.

PLAY without devoting the day.

YOU KNOW THE DRILL

"Eggs Under Easy"

One of the best bunker tips I have ever heard was to draw an egg in the sand while you practice. Aim the tip of the egg towards the target. Make it about the size of your hand. Place a dot on the middle of the egg. The dot signifies ball position. Let your club enter the sand at the back or bottom of the egg, then let the club exit the sand at the tip off the egg. This action should throw the sand around the ball out of the greenside bunker and let your ball come out with ease. Now you know the drill!
