Congratulations to Cecily Sass, the 2016 Junior Tour on the Shore $1000 Scholarship Winner. Cecily grew up playing junior golf here on the shore at Ocean City Golf Club and has just completed her freshman year at Coastal Carolina with a 4.0 GPA! The former junior golf champion is the daughter of Ocean City Golf Club's PGA Professional William Buddy Sass. Congrats to the entire Sass family and to Ocean City Golf Club. The Junior Tour on the Shore would like to thank our tour sponsors for helping make this scholarship a reality! Under Armour and Phillip Fenstermaker Nationwide Insurance Agent for the Whitten Agency.

"Golf has been a part of my life from some of my earliest memories. I began to realize my passion for golf very early. Growing up, my dad would take my brother, sister and I out on the course with him. Although we did not play at that point in our lives, a special appreciation for the art of the course was established. It also established a common bond between all of us that will last for the rest of our lives. We will always enjoy a great round of golf and a special day together. My golf career officially began around the age of 10 when I started attending clinics learning how to properly swing a club. My dad coached our middle school golf team where I began to play competitively. During that time I began playing in the DPGA tournament events with some of my friends. We had so much fun playing together and we won a few trophies. The sport of golf has given me the opportunity to spend quality time with people I love. I will forever take any chance I get to hit balls on the range or play with my dad. My favorite memory is Ocean City's Parent-Child tournament where my dad, brother, sister, and grandfather participate. We always have a great time together on the golf course. I'd like to thank Holly and Ray for their kindness to me! Being a part of such a generous and close community, has allowed me to meet some of the most incredible people around the golf course."

RAVENS ROOST #44 JUNIOR SCHOLARSHIP TOURNEY

On Friday June 3rd the Ocean City Ravens Roost held their 19th annual Scholarship Fund Golf Event. 29 teams from Maryland, Delaware, and New York participated in this year's event at the Ocean Pines Country Club. Guest speakers at the awards banquet were Keith Mills and former Baltimore Colt stand out, Bruce Laird.

This event is the major fundraiser for our annual scholarships given to graduating Stephen Decatur High School, Worcester Preparatory School, and Indian River High School students. In 2016 we awarded $14,000 which brings our total awards to over $145,000 since our inception.

Thanks to all of the committee members, volunteers, golfers and the multitude of area businesses via their donations that made this event a great success. A special note of thanks goes to the management and staff of the Ocean Pines Country Club and Yacht Club that kept things running smoothly.

WICOMICO COUNTY'S JUNIOR EASTERN SHORE GOLF LEAGUE REVIEW

BY BRIAN WORKMAN

The first year of the Jr. Eastern Shore Golf League was a success to say the least. The young golfer's, braved many different elements during the season between rain, wind and cold as well as a few nice days also to play this great game of golf.

Over the six week period the golfers played twelve matches at four different local area courses, earning points based on their finish of each round to qualify for the end of the year Tour Championship held at Great Hope Golf Course on June 5, 2016.

The 2016 Tour Championship started out as a gorgeous day with bright sunshine as the golfers took to the course to claim their title as this year's champion, and when it was all over the following champions were crowned.

AGES 9-11 SCOTT TAYMAN / 9-HOLE ROUND OF 45
AGES 12-14 KATELYN DAVIS / 15-HOLE ROUND OF 84
(SHORTENED DUE TO RAIN)
AGES 15-18 IAN CLARKE / 18-HOLE ROUND OF 88

Wicomico County Recreation, Parks and Tourism would like to thank Great Hope Golf Club, The Elks Lodge Golf Club, Nutter's Crossing Golf Club and Green Hill Yacht and Country Club for allowing our league to use your facilities to make this league as enjoyable as it was, and also the parents for bringing them to each match. Thanks for a great season and we will see you next spring for the 2017 season.

FOR THE JUNIORS

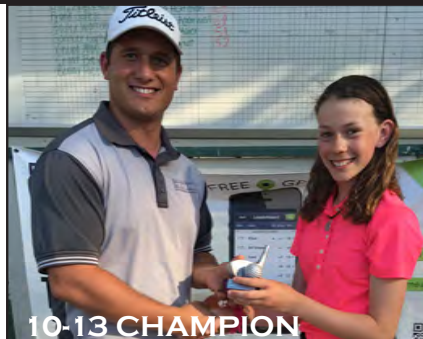

The Junior Tour on the Shore sponsored by Under Armour and Nationwide Insurance is off and running with the first 3 events in the books. The high school division has showcased some serious skill from players representing schools across the Mid Atlantic region. The Glenriddle event had an amazing battle with two of the region's best. Ayden Whitehead from Bennett High School played spectacular all day long but slipped and made bogey on his 18th hole to shoot a 74. Playing in his group was his cross town rival and friend Jacob Keidel from Parkside High. Keidel trailed Whitehead by a couple strokes most of day. Keidel finished with one of the most amazing finishes that high school golf has seen in a long time by making birdie on four of the last five holes to win by 1. The 13 year old super star from Beartrap Dunes, Hannah Lydic, shot one over par at the first event of the year in the 10-13 year old division. After winning last year's junior tour in the 10-13 year old division and her first event this year, she decided that she would like to really push herself and move up to the high school division. She has done amazingly well and is currently in 2nd place the HS division.

We would like to invite all junior golfers in the region to come play in a junior tour event that fits their summer schedule. 3 divisions; 6-9 year olds play 6 holes and can have caddies, 10-13 play 9 holes and can have a caddy as well. HS division plays 18 holes. Thank you Under Armour for sponsoring the junior tour and giving every player a UA golf glove. GET TOURNAMENT READY!

PHILLIP FENSTERMAKER, 4 TIME TOUR ON THE SHORE CHAMPION SHARES SOME INSIGHT INTO THE SPORT OF GOLF, LIFE AND THE PURSUIT OF GREAT INSURANCE COVERAGE.

Golf is the greatest game on earth. Since the age of 10, the sport has had a special place in my heart. My father introduced me to this game while I caddied for him on Hickam Air Force Base in Hawaii. I couldn't get enough. I would even take my clubs with me to soccer practice just so that I could hit the lighted Par 3 golf course afterwards. I learned many of life's greatest lessons on the golf course: respect others, be humble and always give it your all. I can remember my father saying "Always practice what you preach." These early lessons prepared me and have helped me to form my most valuable and long-lasting relationships. No matter what you do in life, these basic principles apply, but I have found it particularly helpful in the insurance business.

Whitten Insurance and Financial Services is proud to serve as the sponsor for the 2016 Junior Tour on the Shore. A family owned business; we provide customized services to a broad range of clients ranging from commercial businesses to farmers to hard-working individuals and families. Our top priority is providing a excellent products and outstanding customer service.

Whitten Insurance Agency, LLC

I'd love to have the opportunity to provide a quote for accurate protection of your business, family, and the possessions you've worked hard to obtain. We have our own in-house claims department which means we personally walk you through the process of filing a claim which saves time and frustration. We've been around for 33 years and are currently one of the top 10 performing agencies in the nation. Our success has come from building strong relationships within our community. We play a major role in over 15 local charitable organizations and exceed over $20,000 in annual donations.

Everyday, in the insurance business I apply the same principles that I learned at 10 on the golf course; respect others, be humble and give it your all. I have the privilege of joining my career with my passion for golf and desire to teach others. Being the title sponsor for the Junior Tour isn't just a great opportunity for our agency, it's great for the future of our sport. I am excited to conduct 5 instructional golf clinics to our Junior members during this 2016 tour season. Each player will receive a logo golf ball from our agency and learn strategies that will help lower their scores. I personally know what can take any player to the next level and it excites me that I can share some of what I have learned.

Hope you'll consider sending your Junior Tour players to the Junior Tour on the Shore and I am happy to provide a no-cost review of your current insurance situation.

Alumni Update: Zach Allen, PGA

UNIVERSITY of MARYLAND
EASTERN SHORE

Zach Allen, from Elkridge, MD was part of the first cohort in the PGA Golf Management Program at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore. He graduated from UMES in December 2012 and shortly thereafter earned PGA Membership. Since that time Zach has proven to be an integral part of River Bend Golf & Country Club in Great Falls, VA.

Zach is currently serving his fourth year as the 1st Assistant Professional under Head PGA Golf Professional, John Madden. He is advancing his career by getting involved with the Middle Atlantic PGA Section and serving on the Central Chapter Tournament Committee. "By involving himself in section and chapter affairs, Zach is building his network and putting himself in position to serve as a future leader within the Middle Atlantic PGA. We at UMES would not be surprised to see Zach run for section office in the near future", said Chris Prosser, UMES PGA Golf Management Internship Coordinator.

Additionally, Zach is very involved with junior golf at River Bend. He was appointed the Junior Golf Coordinator position which keeps him very busy. "At River Bend we conduct the spring tour which consists of 40 to 50 juniors that play on the weekends. We run eight, 3-4 day junior golf camps in the summer. During the week we host the Tuesday Tour for 5-18 year old junior golfers where we give them instruction and then we go out and play the course. We have interclub matches with the other local clubs and we also have a PGA Junior League Team", said Allen.

Also, Zach is proud to be a PING Staff Professional. "We look forward to watching how far Zach will take his career as a PGA Professional", added Prosser.

First Time World Class Internships:

This fall UMES will be welcoming the ninth cohort to the PGA Golf Management Program. One of the many graduation requirements for the students is to complete at least 16 months of internship. In the beginning, way back in 2009, it wasn't difficult for students to secure internships but we always wondered if we would ever have the opportunity to send our students to some of the world's best known facilities. In speaking with some of the Directors from the other PGA Golf Management Programs, they all said to give it time and the longer that our program was around the easier it would be, as long as the current students are performing well on their current internships. As the years went by we slowly placed students at facilities like Columbia Country Club in Chevy Chase and Farm Neck Golf Club in Martha's Vineyard. Then students interned at Caves Valley Golf Club and Baltimore Country Club. Eventually we had students at Olympia Fields Country Club in Chicago and Oakmont Country Club in Pittsburgh (host of the 2016 US Open). The hard work and dedication of our current and former students have made it possible for us to place students at some of the world's best known facilities. For the first time, UMES has placed three students at Pebble Beach Golf Links (Bobby Donson, Jon Seward, and Norman Blanco) and one student (Joe Ellis) at Congressional Country Club. "We are confident that these students will do a great job and that it will lend itself the opportunity for us to place students at these world class facilities in the future. These are career changing internships, we know it and the students know it, so they have embraced the challenge. We can't thank our former students and alumni enough for building the bridge to the opportunities that our current and future students will enjoy", said Prosser.

TOOLS OF THE TRADE

BY STEVE MENZ

“CAN I GET A RULING?” TY WEBB, 1980

Yes, it is a Caddyshack quote and not quite original when talking about golf. But after watching the 2016 U.S. Open held at prestigious Oakmont Country Club. The USGA's actions were a joke. A very interesting rules violation happened on hole #5 during the final round. Dustin Johnson's golf ball moved backwards as he was getting ready to address the ball after a couple practice strokes. He stepped away and called in an USGA Rules Official. The official asked him if he caused the ball to move and his reply was "No" and he was told to play the ball as it lied with no penalty. The penalty in question is Rule 18-2 (Ball at rest moved). After watching the replay, it is clearly seen that Dustin did not touch the ball to cause it to move. Dustin didn't even ground his club behind the ball, an action that usually will cause the ball to move in this situation. I can tell you from personal experience that the greens at Oakmont are by far the most slippery surfaces I have ever putted on and that I have seen balls at rest move a significant distance by an outside agency (wind). What happened next was mind blowing. On the tee on hole #12 another rules official approached Dustin to let him know the action was still under review and there may be a penalty added and that they would rule after the round concluded. They then informed the rest of the players of the situation during play. At the end of the round they did impose the one stroke penalty on Dustin claiming that they deemed he made his ball move. So let me get this straight, the USGA had an army of executives on hand and it took them no less than 90 minutes to "not" come to a decision and let the fate of our national championship rest in limbo. The USGA's actions actually could have caused the outcome of this storied championship to be changed by their "outside" influence. Ironically, Mike Davis the Executive Director and CEO said that they made a "big bogey" and asked for a "mulligan", an action the rules of golf doesn't recognize. DJ's resilience through this matter gave me a new respect for his mental toughness and thank goodness he had the intestinal fortitude to make birdie on the final hole to make sure this ruling didn't change the outcome. Well done DJ, Mr. Major Championship Winner, well done. How about a Fresca?

Barrevolution

WWW.BARREVOLUTION.NET

By now most of you have heard about the new workout craze, barre fitness classes. Barre was first invented by Lotte Berk, a European ballerina who relocated to NYC and started a studio in Manhattan. Since then, studios have been popping up all over the US, including Barrevolution in Ocean City, MD. Barrevolution (Barre-vo-lution) first opened in Timonium, MD last July and owner, Lara Custer, made the leap to bring this workout to the Eastern Shore.

So, what exactly is barre and how can it benefit golfers? Barre is a low impact workout that combines the strength training aspects of ballet, the flexibility components of yoga, and the core conditioning drills found in Pilates. Although this workout is low impact, don't be fooled by the tiny movements, you will build strength in underused muscles and see results quickly. After just a few classes, there will also be noticeable changes in both posture and flexibility. Immediately following the warmup, the instructor leads the class in a few series of core and low back strengthening work. From planks to cat-cow yoga stretches, the core is activated and warm, preventing injury before moving to building strength in the limbs. The Barrevolution method provides time to stretch in between sets to elongate muscles and incorporates a long yoga sequence midway through class. Drills and yoga specific postures to open hips and strengthen the low back are so key to more flexibility on the golf course. Core flexibility and rotation is a must, and you will get this benefit with a barre workout, preventing injury and improving your golf swing. Bonus, you get to take a 5 minute nap at the end of class! "We believe everyone needs a few moments of quiet time everyday, to take a few deep breathes, and reflect, in order to head back into the day (or golf course) mentally stronger.", says Custer.

CELEBRATING 20 YEARS OF GROWTH ON THE EASTERN SHORE

Provided by Judy Kight, EWGA

Beginning in 1996 with 35 members playing on one course to 330 members playing on seventeen courses, the Eastern Shore Chapter of the EWGA remains committed to providing women opportunities to play golf.

The membership recently thanked past presidents for their outstanding leadership of the organization at a special day of golf and celebration at Lighthouse Sound. "We believe in removing all barriers to women playing golf by listening to our members and acting on their concerns" said current president Nancy Dofflemeyer. This spring Nancy received the prestigious Nancy Oliver Award from the national organization for the spirit of volunteerism she represents. She is the founder of the chapter and has continuously held leadership positions in the chapter over the past 20 years.

Leagues, clinics, and golf socials are available at varied times and for players at all levels. In its third year, a new golfer/refresher league provides 6 weeks of instruction followed by 12 weeks of slow progression into course play with mentors. Co-captains Beth Deeley and Carol Van Reenan work with participants to ensure a positive experience for all. Introducing the game of golf in a non-threatening atmosphere, making friends to play with, and working with mentors are important aspects of this league. Available for beginners to further learn and enjoy the game of golf are Fun Leagues in Maryland and Delaware.

New this year is a Working Ladies League on Tuesday evenings at Lighthouse Sound. A shotgun start at 5:15 followed by light fare makes this a perfect evening for women who cannot play during the day. Eight additional leagues in Maryland and Delaware offer more opportunities for great golf on the beautiful golf courses of the Eastern Shore.

OCEAN CITY WPGA TEAM WINS FINAL

AT HOG NECK GOLF COURSE

The Ocean City Ladies Team took honors in the 2016 Gross Division of the WPGA Finals on Tuesday. It was quite a day with each of the four two-women teams going neck and neck with the women of Prospect Bay. The air horn sounded late afternoon, sending everyone for cover as severe storms headed towards the course. Team 1, Sandy Scitti and Colleen Hacker were able to complete their round beating Prospect Bay by one point. Team 2, Carolyn Lyman and Peggy Gore also completed their round beating their opponent by two points. Team 3, Marcia Soule and Sandra Andersen were down one point coming into hole 18. Both ladies played the hole very well and were set to take the hole had the air horn not forced them to mark their balls and head inside. Team 4, Mary Renshaw and Linda Palmer were up two points with three holes left to play. With tornado warnings and torrential downpours, the decision was made to suspend play and close the course. Ahead in the score, the ladies walked away with the 2016 WPGA Championship. "It's an especially sweet win," said Captain Sandy Scitti, "since we didn't make it as far as the Semi's in 2015."

YOU KNOW THE DRILL

BY STEVE MENZ

"TOO TENSE DOES NOT = 1/5"

One of the common issues I see with higher handicappers is lack of distance control in the short game. More specifically "touch" with chipping and putting. This happens when the forearms and hands tense up and squeeze the club too hard. This will cause the stroke to be too rigid and make distance control nearly impossible to be consistent. It reminds me of Frankenstein petting a puppy. The strokes are awkward and forced. Try relaxing your arms and hands and let the shoulders rock to make the stroke. Use one fifth of the pressure in your arms and grip. Your lag putts will be closer and your chips will have better action on the greens.

SHORE UP WITH THE GAME COACH

CARSON LOVETT, MA SPORT PSYCHOLOGY

golfnews@easternshoregolf.net

Summer's here and all phases of The Tour are in full swing. It's the heat of the competitive season, for the beginner working through the stages of development and the professional on a Major hunt, and it's a great time for a checkup. Are you mentally fit? Sport Psychologists and Game Coaches agree that a sound psyche is as vital for success in golf as a strong and flexible body and a solid grip on the fundamentals. Yoga, resistance and cardio training, and hours at the range may give the athlete a conditioning edge but research suggests it's the four pillars of a "Muscular Mind" that turns promise and potential into achievement.

1. MENTAL TOUGHNESS

being comfortable under pressure and in the spotlight.

2. MENTAL FLEXIBILITY

being able to adapt and think creatively.

3. MENTAL BALANCE

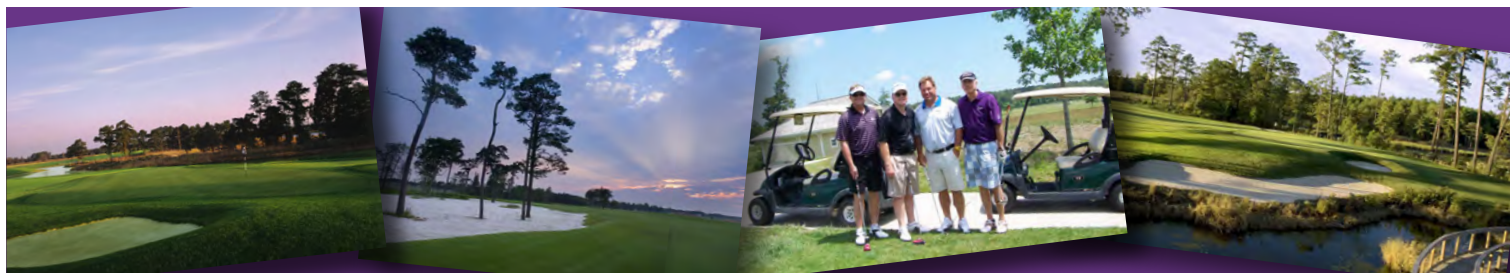

having the nerve to stay in the moment.

4. MENTAL STAMINA

managing the stress and emotions of competition.

To stay sharp during the "Dog Days": practice under pressure and embrace the challenge; think outside the box; chart thoughts to identify drifts beyond the present; and plan for the inevitable ebb and flow. Golf is a rewarding game full of adventure, from the first tee to the clubhouse. With the right perspective and a well-rounded regiment, it's the joy the lasts a lifetime. Just remember, the most important real estate in golf is the space between your ears.

"THE 3 MOST IMPORTANT VARIABLES IN GOLF"

BY TODD HOWARD

"MENTOR, FRIEND & TEACHING GREAT"...

Queenstown Harbor

John Jacobs proclaimed, "The only purpose for a golf swing is to move the club squarely through the back of the ball at maximum speed. It is of no significance how this is done as long as it is a method than can be repeated."

Today there is so much information available for the golf student, but still so little understanding.

Ultimately golf is a game of ball control.

The 3 things that control the ball more than any other are; The "ClubFace" The "Path of the Swing", and the "Angle at which the club is approaching the ball".

The way we set up to the ball determines what kind of a chance we will have to get the ball to do what we want. It could be said that up to 80% of our ball striking success is determined by how we address the ball.

The Face is controlled to the largest degree by our Grip. The Path, by our Shoulder Alignment and the Angle of Attack, by our Posture. It is amazing, how we can create a better ball flight and strike by simply starting right.

In many cases, especially among good players, there is often a simple set up adjustment that can be made to improve the strike significantly.

Jacobs told me a story that has stuck with me for many years. It involves his long time friend and student, 5 time British Open Champion Peter Thomson. The Australian, on his way to the Open Championship took a brief stop at John's place. Getting out of the car, the two men greeted each other. Waisting no time, Thomson grabbed a club and getting into his address position, asked Jacob's, "how does it look"? John replied, "As good as I have ever seen it". Thomson promptly got back in his car, said thank you and drove to The Open. This is how important our address position is and Mr. Thomson knew it well.

In addition, the ball's flight will actually tell us what is happening at impact.

With some simple training, it is possible to properly diagnose our own faults and begin to correct them. This is done, by simply being able to properly interpret what the ball is telling us.

What does the ball need to do? Therefore what does the club need to do? Therefore what do I, as the player need to do? This is the order. Starting with impact and what the ball does, allows us to work with any player of any ability. Method's do not allow for this. There will always be a large percentage of people that will not be able to perform a certain method.

The shape of the swing is always judged by the impact it causes.

Impact is the best place to begin and end and the ball is our best teacher!

GOOD FOOD. GOOD BEER. GOOD PEOPLE.
KENT ISLAND, MARYLAND

In the past we have looked at osteoarthritis and rheumatoid arthritis as they affect joints (and the golf game). This time I want to touch on a more unusual form of joint disease –psoriatic arthritis, known to most sports fans because of Phil Mikelson who has it. About 30% of people with psoriasis will develop the joint disease. It most commonly affects people in the 30-50 year age range and, as all forms of arthritis, can be mild to severe. It can be associated with other symptoms such as changes in the nail bed and conjunctivitis. The severity is not related to the severity of the skin condition and it is a diagnosis mostly of exclusion. There are no specific blood tests for it, but diagnosing it early is important. If left untreated for more than 6-8 months, permanent joint damage can occur. There are multiple treatment modalities ranging from NSAIDS to methotrexate, antimalarials, Imuran and steroids. Treatment, of course, is tailored to the specific patient. It must be especially tailored to women because of the effect some treatment regimes on pregnancy. Once therapy is undertaken, most doctors will refer the person to a physical therapist, because an exercise routine is beneficial. This can range from walking to swimming and exercises such as yoga and tai chi. So if you have psoriasis, it is important to tell your dermatologist if you develop ancillary symptoms such as joint pain, unusual fatigue or other symptoms that are new to you. Again, the earlier a diagnosis is made, the more effective treatment will be.

MAURICE ALLEN RETURNS TO THE PODIUM AFTER DOMINATING AT THE HOLLAND LDET CHAMPIONSHIP

ABOUT MAURICE ALLEN

Allen, who grew up in Pine Hills, Florida, earned a biology degree from Florida A&M University. He attended chiropractic school in Atlanta, where he also became a student of the game of golf. After countless hours of practice around the Atlanta area, he set a new Guinness World Record for golf ball speed (211 mph), using a 3 wood. His longest drive in competition is 459 yards. Last year, Allen competed on the Long Drivers European Tour, where he won three titles and then the tour champion title, based on points. He finished as the Champion of the Volvik Long Drive European Tour, where he maintained his #1 ranking throughout the nine championships.

In addition to his professional long drive competition, Allen is committed to giving back to his community. He dedicates time to the Orlando Minority Youth Golf Association, which provides inner-city youth with the opportunity to learn the game of golf while attaining skills to succeed in life. He also is a Boys and Girls Club Ambassador of Golf.

Maurice Allen (USA), professional long drive competitor, won the Holland LDET (Long Drive European Tour) Championship this weekend, returning to the top of the podium. Allen's drives of 376 and 367 yards bested competitor Scott Beaven of England in the final round. This week's championship win further secured Allen's lead as number one in the official European Long Drive ranking, and moved his standings in the LDET from number 11 to number two.

The competition started very strong for Allen with a qualifying round drive of 393 yards, his personal best of the day, and the longest ball recorded in the event. That blast set the tone for the remainder of Allen's competition.

"It's great when I can come out and post very strong numbers in the qualifying rounds," said Maurice Allen, Holland LDET Champion. "It's even more rewarding that I didn't have an OB set the entire event, remained focused and consistent throughout the entire competition to capture the championship."

In Amsterdam, the hitters were drawn into four groups and played three rounds each for seeding. Allen succeeded with the first victory of the season. To win he had to defeat Tim Petrasch (GER), Lee Gauthier (ENG) and Emil Rosberg (SWE) in match play. Meanwhile, Beaven beat Mauro Benaglio (CH), Anders Pettersson (SWE) and Dan Konyk (ENG).

Next up for Allen is the Tennessee Shootout in Greenville, TN before heading back overseas for the Austria LDET and Czech Republic LDET competitions over the next few weeks. His complete schedule can be found at www.mauriceallen360.com.

CHAMPIONSHIP MATCH RESULTS:

Maurice Allen (376, 367) def. Scott Beaven (353, 363)

SEMIFINALS RESULTS:

YOU CAN TEACH A 'BULLDOG' NEW TRICKS!

Lesson 2

Well, here we are part 2 of the Bulldog Project! How is our local celebrity faring in his quest to get better at golf? Our goal is to get a 20 handicapper down to a 12. I am pleased to say that he is progressing nicely. Making changes in your golf swing can be a challenge to say the least. In the last issue we were working on a move that caused Bulldog to lose consistency in his ball striking. He picked the club up with his arms causing him to be too steep at the top and made his upper body lose his spine angle. This action caused fat shots that were also blocked right the majority of the time. So we concentrated on turning the club back rather than lifting. When we first introduced the move Bulldog was less than comfortable over the ball, which is expected. He had been swinging the club his way for 30 years so big changes don't normally "take" overnight. It takes many repetitions to erase years of habits. Thanks to his diligence we are seeing progress (see image). The left image is where we started with a dominant right arm lifting the club (see the red lines). The right frame has him turning the club back to a more classic position with his left forearm being parallel to his swing plane, a coveted position. We achieved this position with the swing thought of keeping his elbows pointed to the ground throughout the swing. We will press on from here trying to introduce lower body rotation as his main means of downward club movement. But quietly he has also become a green reading guru. Through teaching him feel in his feet, he has repeatedly been able to judge slope of the green with .1%. All along I have been trying to get him to swing better but have also been sharpening his short game that will shave strokes off his score rather quickly. Stay tuned for part 3 in the next issue and tune in every weekday morning on "The Rude Awakening Show" on Ocean 98 where you can also hear my Golf Report every Thursday at 8am.

So the answer to the question of whether or not you can teach an old dog new tricks is yes. However, the old dog has to be willing to put in the time if he wants to make the new tricks work. This is the most time I have every spent on the practice range in my life. The good news is I can start to see the results. We are currently working on fixing my swing. For over 30 years I've been doing it one way and now I am learning to do it the right way. I'm not there yet, but it's beginning to feel better. I think the biggest difference I've noticed is the misses are not as drastic. I'm still having problems with finishing the turn but it's getting better. My swing has improved tremendously. I've learned to take the club away with my chest rather than my hands and how to turn my back towards the target. My next big thing is to try and drive with my legs and turn my hips and allow the club to simply follow. I know that we are all the same and want to see the handicap come down after just one lesson but I've learned to treat this whole process as a marathon and not a sprint. Follow my progress here on the pages of ESG Magazine and tune in weekday mornings 6-10am on 98.1FM as I continue to find my "A" game!

Soft Hands By Rob McDonald

Ben Crenshaw once said “The closer you get to the hole, the more mental this game becomes”. Around the green, misses can become very costly. A thin shot can scoot across the green and into a bunker. A chunked shot can leave you in the same position from which you were just trying to depart. The experience of having those misses can cause anxiety that creates even more misses. This can happen when the player’s focus is on trying to get the club head to lift the ball rather than swinging the handle.

Having “soft hands” is a way of describing a player with a good sense of touch or feel around the green. Having soft hands means that you use your hands to sense the momentum of the handle swinging through the impact zone and allow it to continue without manipulation as the weight of the club head drops to the ball. The feeling is similar to a sinker resting on the bottom of the stream, being pulled by the fishing line. If you use your hands to try and strike the ball with the club head, they can’t sense and allow the momentum to continue. This interference causes deceleration in the arms and inconsistency in the results. The dropping of the weight of the club head is what actually gets the ball airborne. To get the feeling of the hands allowing the weight to fall as the handle passes through the bottom, try this exercise. Hold the very end of the handle in between your thumb and finger tips and let it swing back and forth. Feel the club’s weight setting the path that it swings on and how it changes direction on its own. Then, take the handle end and follow the club as long as you can in both directions, allowing the club to set the path and pace. Now your hands are sensing and allowing versus working and manipulating. Now hold the club as you normally do and try to feel the same thing, allowing the club to set the path and pace. Your distance control is going to come from how far back you swing the club in the take-away. The longer the shot, the longer the backswing. You should be able to do this softly and with ease for the delicate shots. Allow momentum and gravity to do the work for you. If you are sensing and allowing, you can play those shots with your soft hands!

YOUR PATH TO PAR

INSTRUCTOR THE ORIGINAL GOLF SCHOOL

Club design and manufacturing is very sophisticated. It's a long way from hand crafted hickory sticks. Yet, all that is new is not necessarily best for everyone. To improve your game it is essential to understand your clubs and your swing. One of the most important components of the club is the shaft.

The old adage swing the most flexible shaft you can control is still valid. The purpose of the shaft design is to provide a consistent impact position for a given swing. The irony is that a stiffer shaft is intended to optimize a swing that is fast in swing transition and release, but it also encourages a faster transition and release as players swing harder to make the shaft work. Your shaft should match your swing not dictate it.

Jack Nicklaus could hit drives with a steel shafted persimmon driver as far as today's "bombers" do with modern technology. Nicklaus briefly experimented with X shaft clubs as an amateur, but quickly returned to S shafts for his professional career. If an S was good enough for Jack maybe the regular or senior shaft is the best choice for many of us.

Longer shafts provide potential for greater leverage and arc improving swing speed and distance. Yet, a survey of tournament professionals a few years ago revealed the average length of the driver shaft was 44 inches. Yet, off the shelf drivers from top club companies are often 45.5 to 46.5. Tiger Woods during his peak playing years used a 43.5 inch driver, Nicklaus 43.25. Clearly longer shafts do not guarantee consistently longer and more importantly straighter shots.

Bryson DeChambeau has re-introduced the concept of single length shafts. This concept logically concludes that if you change the club head loft but keep the shaft length constant it will be easier to swing consistently. This idea is "down the middle" suggesting that too long is hard to control, while shorter also limits performance. DeChambeau is an innovator, but his 37 1/2 inch clubs are consistent with the "old school" club makers 38/24 rule. Clubs over 38 inches long and 24 degrees loft are difficult for average golfers. Perhaps the easiest way to achieve swing consistency is to swing the same length shaft. Distance control depending on club loft and swing tempo with no changes in posture or plane.

Ultralight weight shafts enabling faster swing speed are not for everyone. Tempo and sequence of body motion is the source of power and accuracy. A slightly heavier shaft may even encourage better shoulder turn, wrist hinge, and tempo of transition. A very light can encourage a more rapid arm swing yet destroy the swing tempo and sequence in the process.

The foundation of good golf is balance and consistency. It is true for your swing and your clubs. Get professional advice before making an investment in equipment. Knowledge is more than information, data, and popular trends. Hope you are enjoying a great summer season.

Note: In the previous issue I stated Tom Laddbush made 2 aces after making adaptive swing changes. He made 3.
