DPGA
SCHOLARSHIPS

LAST CHANCE FOR HIGH SCHOOL COLLEGE BOUND SENIORS TO APPLY FOR A DPGA SCHOLARSHIP THIS YEAR.

Each DPGA club is allowed to have one golfing student awarded a scholarship per year. Preferential consideration is given to those that have financial need, are active golfers and/or majoring in or taking courses in a field related to golf, agronomy or agriculture or are from a DPGA club.

The 2016 DPGA scholarships will be a one year scholarship with the chance of reapplying if your GPA is 2.5 or above. The minimum one year scholarship will be for $1000 this year. One of the main requirements for the DPGA scholarship is to have a USGA handicap. If you have played on a high school team, or our junior tournaments or other tournaments, work with your coach or DPGA golf course to get a handicap. Most courses allow junior golfer free access to their handicap system or at most a minimal charge. It is a small price to pay for a chance at a $1000 scholarship.

The deadline for the application is June 1st, no exceptions.

More information on the process and the application can be obtained from any DPGA club or at the DPGA website at <http://dpga.x10host.com/dpga/scholarshipprogram.htm>

DPGA DISCOUNT COUPON BOOKS

The DPGA 2016 Discount Coupon book is still available at Nutters Crossing GC, Choptank GC, Eastern Shore Y&CC, Great Hope GC, Sussex Pines CC, Winter Quarters GC and Hog Neck Golf Courses or call Rick Bisker at 410-749-3563 or email to rbisker@comcast.net. All proceeds from the sale of the coupon books go into the scholarship fund.

JUNIOR Ch

Sitting on the patio at Bear Trap Dunes Golf Club enjoying a post-round libation, I noticed two young girls on the practice range. Their swings were strong, and agile, as they should be for someone their tender age. What stood out was their rhythm. Signaling to my cohorts I said, "Look at that", and they did and were awestruck. "My God", "Incredible", "Unbelievable", were a few of the comments, all tinged with more than a hint of envy for the smoothness of the swings.

The two young ladies are Hannah, twelve years old and her sister Sarah, ten years old. They are on their way to learning about golf, not just as a sport, but as part of a way of life.

When Hannah was six and Sarah four years old, still interested in Tee-Ball, their dad Garrett Lydic and mom Leslie, both Physical Ed teachers at North Laurel Elementary School, introduced them to golf. Hannah used a diminutive seven iron and Sarah a whiffle ball bat to hit the ball into a net. The occasional damage to the walls and picture frames were a small price to pay for the progress of their skills but eventually they moved to the garage to minimize the chaos. The transition had begun.

Two years ago, Neil Maurer, Golf Pro at Bear Trap Dunes, recognized the talent and, always supportive of Junior Golf, allowed the girls to practice at Bear Trap Dunes. It wasn't long before a good portion of the membership "adopted" these two young wonder-women, appreciating their sparkling personalities as much as their golf skills. On occasion Hannah and Sarah play rounds of golf with Ladies Champion Karen Sergison and Men's Champion Mike McGowan. You couldn't ask for better playing partners.

Today, six years after starting, both girls love the game of golf and everything associated with it. Both girls qualified for last years' sub-regional Drive, Chip & Putt competition and Sarah qualified for the Regional event in Great Falls, Va. They participate in the Philly Junior Tour and have fallen in love with the EASTERN SHORE GOLF MAGAZINE JUNIOR TOUR ON THE SHORE AND ARE BOTH THE DEFENDING CHAMPIONS IN THEIR RESPECTIVE DIVISIONS. HANNAH WON THE 10-13 COED DIVISION AND SARAH WON THE 6-9 COED DIVISION IN 2015.

Hannah is looking forward to participating in the Delaware Women's Amateur and Junior Amateur tours this summer.

For now, at ages twelve and ten, they lead a well balanced life, juggling their school work with golf and other activities. Sarah loves to dance, go boogie boarding and play outdoor basketball. Hannah loves basketball, being at the beach, painting and drawing and is becoming quite proficient at sewing with her new sewing machine. On any given weekday they practice golf for a short time before school and after school (homework comes first) and on the weekends they will practice for two or three hours each day. They both also play softball, lacrosse and field hockey but their first love is golf. Sweet, diminutive, loveable and super competitive, they exemplify what Junior Golf is and should be. The girls think the Junior Tour on the Shore is a fantastic way to meet other Junior golfers and showcase their skills. Come on out and join Hannah and Sarah. You'll love it.

Like all young lady golfers, they have their favorite golf pros they follow. Hannah's are Bubba Watson and Lexi Thompson. Sarah leans toward Ricki Fowler and doubles up on Lexi Thompson. It's interesting to note that Lexi qualified for her first US Women's Open at age twelve and turned pro at age fifteen. Look out Lexi, here come Hannah and Sarah.

GLENRIDDLE GOLF CLUB ADVANCED TO "FINAL 4"

IN THE 87TH ANNUAL MARYLAND STATE GOLF ASSOCIATION MEN'S TEAM CHAMPIONSHIP

GlenRiddle
GOLF CLUB

It was an privilege to play for GlenRiddle and represent the eastern shore on our way to the final 4. We played against some tremendous competition every match. I enjoyed the challenge the state team provides with its format.

JASON GULSHEN

Playing in this year's state team matches is the most fun I've had playing competitive golf. It has been a blast playing with such a great group of guys and I look forward in seeing what we can do next year in state team matches.

JOHNNY BOSTON

The MSGA team matches were great. on a very small scale, they provide the excitement of March madness, coupled with the intensity of Ryder Cup play. The competitors playing in these matches are the best players in the state. Back to back appearances in the final four by two different Ocean City clubs reflects the high caliber of play coming from this area.

CHRIS MASON

Great team competition. The GlenRiddle team is heading in the right direction and we will be on everyone's radar in the coming years.

JEFF KINGSBURY

GlenRiddle Golf Club in Berlin advanced to the "Final 4" in the 87th annual Maryland State Golf Association Men's Team Championship. The competition started with 63 teams from across the state participating in a bracket-style tournament.

Matches include one golf professional from each club along with 11 club members. They are divided into six two-man teams. Half of the group plays on their home course and the other three teams compete on their opponent's course in a partner's best ball format. Three points are available for each match for a total of 18. One point is earned for the front nine, one point for the back nine and another overall. A half-point is awarded for ties.

On April 2, GlenRiddle won 11-7 over Ocean City Golf Club, which was in the final four last year. The next day, GlenRiddle defeated The Bay Club of Berlin, 14.5-3.5. In the "Sweet 16" round, on April 10, GlenRiddle scored a 16-2 victory over Talbot Country Club of Easton. In the "Elite Eight" round, on April 16, GlenRiddle defeated Crofton Country Club by a score of 11-7.

GlenRiddle participated in their first ever "Final Four" on Sunday April 17, against the prestigious Baltimore Country Club, winners of 2 of the 3 previous State Championships and lost by a score of 17-1. Albeit a lopsided score the matches were very close, where 6 of the 12 nine hole matches were decided by just one hole. Baltimore Country Club went on to defeat Beaver Creek Country Club 15.5-2.5 in the 2016 State Championship for their 3rd Title in four years.

"It was very exciting to compete at such a high level of golf throughout the State as GlenRiddle has never made it past the second round before," said Scot Dailey, director of golf at GlenRiddle. Since he joined GlenRiddle 14 months ago, membership has increased 33 percent. I am extremely proud of our entire Membership and our Staff for the support they gave our team, along with them promoting what a great club and atmosphere that they are growing for themselves.

GlenRiddle Golf Club is on the rise and what the Ruark Family Courses can offer are truly second to none in the area! Information on membership at GlenRiddle please visit www.glenriddlegolf.com or contact the Golf Shop at 410-213-2325.

RAY TARANTO OF EASTERN SHORE GOLF MAGAZINE CATCHES UP WITH BOB BENNETT OF CHARLES SCHWAB (EASTON)

RAY – Hey Bob, you sponsored the tour last year and are back again... what is your big take away?

BOB – I like the atmosphere and the comradery. Though it is not my sport, I enjoy the struggle and the commentary. Players at all levels have similar stories with different outcomes. Every time I tee it up, I am grateful to be out there and hopeful that my results will improve.

RAY – What is your biggest challenge as a player?

BOB – It is simple... my club head speed is slow and that relates to distance. I can hit my targets, and I can putt. I need to increase club head speed without distorting my swing. It is difficult when I have no muscle memory. Put me on a basketball floor, and there are spots that I won't miss from, because they are my spots. In golf, I have few shots that I own.

RAY – So why do you play?

BOB – It is the pursuit of excellence that intrigues and motivates me. I am going to get there. Last year the experience I got on the tour made me better. I won two matches in my club's match play event. I now know what is like to be up one, with one to play, and close it out. I am not new to golf but played in my first tournament ever on the Tour last year. I am 18 strokes better when I play a practice round. I am learning how to play with tournament pressure and how to play a new course every week.

RAY – We really appreciate your local sponsorship of the Tour on the Shore as well as Schwab's national sponsorship of the PGA. Can you tell us why you have made the four-year commitment to be a local sponsor?

BOB – Sure, the PGA and the Tour on the Shore are where the game we love lives. Golfers understand investing in their game. We understand investing. Seems like a good fit. We hope people will come to us when they have life events that require our expertise. In order for this to happen, people need to know we are here on the Eastern Shore.

RAY – So ... are you going to keep playing?

BOB – Yes. I play to get to know the other players, and there is a lot of talent out here. My score is not an indication of my knowledge of or passion for the game. I know that lonely feeling when you can't find the ball at the end of the club, and I also know the feeling of sinking a 40 foot putt, making a birdie... and holing out from 80 yards away. So, those are the things that bring me back. You know, if it were easy, they would call it bowling.

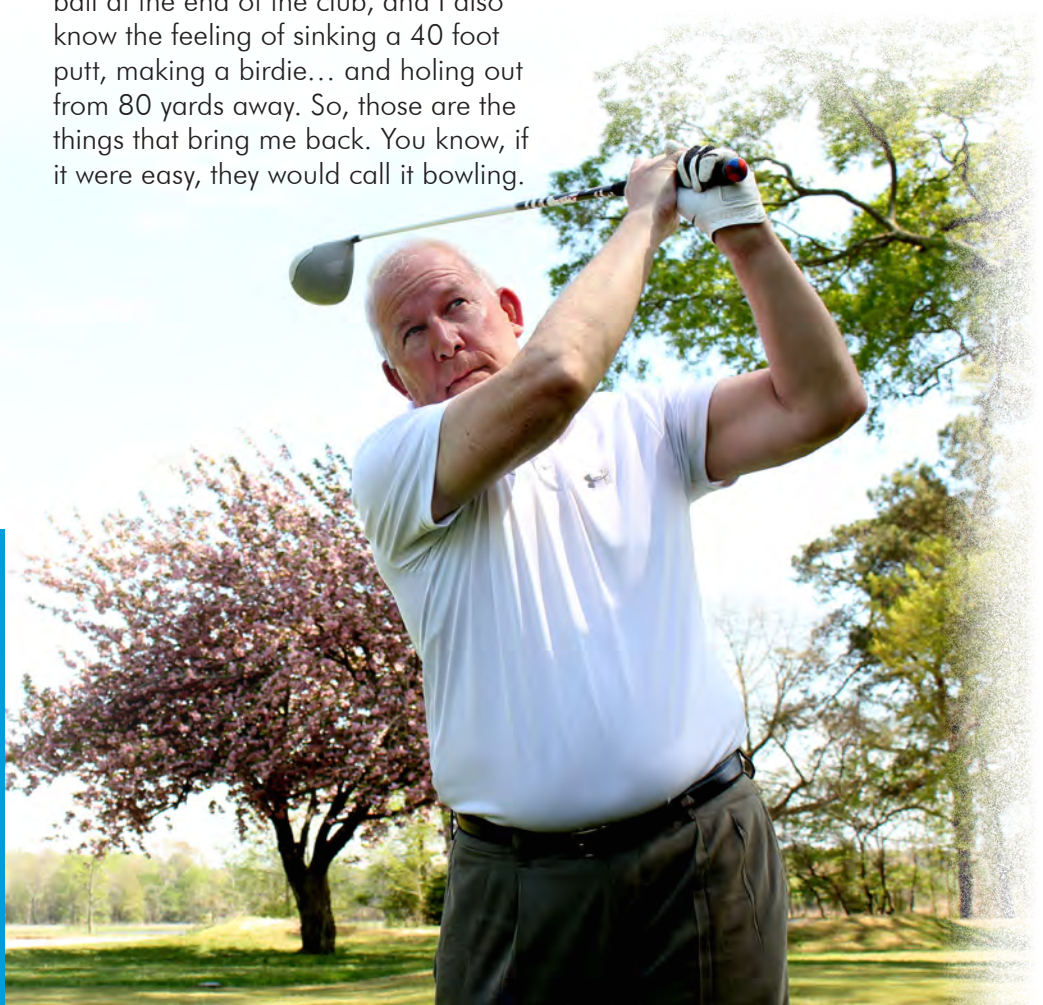

RAY – Can you give us some investment wisdom?

BOB – Whether you're investing during a recession or a booming economy, the most important thing is to start with a financial plan that takes your individual situation and goals into account. I would also encourage investors to get involved, ask tough questions and demand accountability from their financial professional. Investors should understand how their money is invested and why and how much it's costing them. And they should expect clear, straightforward answers.

RAY – Thanks buddy.

BOB – Thanks Ray.
See you on the Tour.

One hundred twenty members enjoyed a delicious lunch at Ruth's Chris and then played 9 holes of golf or attended a golfers' clinic. The next celebration will be held at Lighthouse Sound on May 18th at 4:30 p.m. Planned for the day is a 9 hole shotgun start followed by light fare and music at the clubhouse. Fore Better — or Worse —

We all enjoy this great game of golf so much. Maybe it's because golf is more than just a sport or a pastime. It's an opportunity to connect with good friends or a great way to make some new ones. It's the game that you can play and enjoy from your youth to retirement and beyond! The amazing golf courses here on the Eastern Shore are a place to enjoy the beautiful environment that makes our area so unique.

Magic happens on our courses. As a community we come together on the course to raise funds for our favorite charities and organizations. We conduct business together in a relaxing atmosphere or we play for fun during summer vacation. For some, the golf course is host to one of the most important days of their lives.... their wedding day.

This styled photo shoot that took place just outside of Ocean City, Maryland captured the love of Amber and Matthew Cowley and featured classically modern touches of black and white mixed with feathers and lots of sparkle. When photographer Kelsey McCarthy, of McCarthy Imagerie, asked these two if they would be interested in playing models for this photo shoot, the married couple did not hesitate at the thought of putting dress clothes on and posing for a few hours in the February cold.

Lighthouse Sound provided the stunning setting for this beautiful black and white themed event. This venue offers breathtaking views of the Assawoman Bay and the Ocean City skyline. Ocean City is a beach community which often lends itself to weddings that feature a more tropical, coastal, and vibrant color scheme. The vendors involved in this styled shoot wanted to do the opposite of a tropical color scheme and instead let the natural surroundings interpret the color scheme. Classic black and white fit the venue nicely and let the sunset, bay water, and greenery of the golf course take center stage.

Two different floral centerpieces were created by Little Miss Lovely Floral Design and added glamour to the state-ly dining room at Lighthouse Sound. Low, lush arrangements were created in rectangular silver tins. Tall arrangements made primarily of mixed greenery stood on clear Eiffel Tower vases. Each arrangement incorporated extravagant ostrich feathers into the designs and united the two different style of floral pieces. Small silver lanterns and crystal-like light spheres added ambience and a twinkle of candle light. Beautiful sheer overlays were placed over classic ivory linens on the tables. Black chargers and white table settings added to the classic feel. Simple menus printed in black and white matched a sample invitation suite and were placed atop each delicately folded napkin that marked each place setting. The bride carried a bouquet filled with beautiful blooms. White cymbidium orchids were placed front and center and surrounded by white tulips, stock, snapdragons and sweetheart roses. The soft pink faces of the orchids added the perfect amount of soft pink to the bouquet. Branches of eucalyptus, lemon leaf, and delicate ferns stretched outward and gave the bouquet a whimsical feel. The stripped black and white ribbon acted as an accessory against the bride's stark white lace gown.

Floral hair pieces are a great alternative to traditional bridal veils. Amber wore a floral hair piece tucked into her undo. Andrea, of Andrea Bounds Hair & Make Up, styled Amber's hair beautifully and brought out her best features using a flattering make up palette.

Alison Sappington, of Alison to the Altar Event Coordinating, said, "This shoot has almost a 1920's Gatsby feel. It feels like a party with a lot of opulence and luxury. A classic black and white color scheme provides tons of room for interpretation when using the theme to create an exciting backdrop for a wedding reception. My interpretation of this shoot was black & white and very glamorous, with a little sparkle." We have been designing events on the Shore for the last four years. Having an extensive background in fundraising and a Certified Wedding Planner, Alison uses that experience to create your event with beauty, elegance, and class.

ESGM BRIDAL

What a magical day for Amanda and Bobby Dawson. The setting was natural and free flowing as were the flowers and decor provided by Encore Events. We enjoyed creating unique tropical side swag bouquets for the bridesmaids that went perfectly with the vibrant coral dresses they each wore. Peaceful breezes swept thru the coordinating fabrics that were meandering down the bamboo tripods, carrying them into the air perfectly. These tripods created the aisle that the bridal party would walk down. The magic continued with the same fabrics and flowers meandering along the columns of standing gazebo on the Lighthouse Sound grounds. Peaceful waters as the backdrop added to the mystical feel of this very special day. Encore Events was very happy to be a part of yet another day of magic and love.

Jordan's Meltdown By Rob McDonald

After Sunday's round of the Masters Tournament, I heard a lot of comments about Jordan Spieth's "meltdown" on the twelfth hole. That's the exciting thing about the Masters. It's the back nine of Augusta National that holds all of the drama. It can imbed itself into the mind of the greatest players and create enough of a distraction, even if it's ever so subtle, to cause mistakes to happen. A lot of people wondered if it would be the beginning of the end for Jordan. If he could ever really get over it.

Great Champions find a way to block out those distractions and get the job done. Jordan will be one of those great champions. Especially since he went through the alleged meltdown. With determination and perseverance, golf teaches you to overcome adversity. Very few great champions became great without overcoming what must have seemed to be devastating losses at some point in their journey to victory.

Tiger may have been one of the few. From age two, he was a leader in his age group, winning three USGA Junior Amateur Championships and three USGA Amateur Championships before turning professional and winning the Masters right away.

What impressed me the most about Jordan Spieth's Sunday performance was what he said afterwards. During the post round interview, he said he knew what happened to him within a half hour of the experience. He came out of his game plan of trying to go lower and was content with just making pars. You can't play defensive golf and win the championship. Normally it would take a couple of sleepless nights to correctly identify the cause of the meltdown. Jordan understood right away. That's why he still had a chance coming down the stretch. That's why he will be a great champion in the future!

As we approach summer, I thought it wise to review a few things about shoulder injuries, especially the rotator cuff. The "cuff" is comprised of four small muscles that attach to the head of the humerus to help stabilize it in the shoulder joint. When injured or torn, it pretty much precludes your golf swing. Injuries to this area tend to be more common after the age of 40. Simple injury can often be treated with rest and physical therapy; a tear, however, is a more serious problem. These are often diagnosed using ultrasound and MRI. Symptoms are pain in the affected shoulder and upper arm, especially when lifting the arm overhead or reaching behind the back.

A tear, if repair is required, can often be done using an arthroscope, which is minimally invasive. Occasionally an open repair is required. As with many injuries, the smart thing is to prevent it from happening. Which brings me to the way golfers prepare for the golf season, specifically strength training. Overall, strength training for the upper body and core muscles is beneficial. There are also specific exercises designed to strengthen the rotator cuff, which can be found online or by asking a trainer at the gym you attend. There are, however, certain things which can cause an injury or tear. Unfortunately, I see members do these time and again at our fitness club. One of these is to do lat pulldowns by taking the bar to the back of your neck; the other is to do military presses starting with the bar at the back of the neck. These exercises put a lot of stress on the small cuff muscles; sometimes you can get away with it, but you are pushing your luck. As I have said over and over, it pays to get professional advice and instruction if you plan to start a strength training routine for golf.

Remember the old adage, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure".
Then have a great and safe golf season.

SHORE UP WITH THE GAME COACH

CARSON LOVETT, MA SPORT PSYCHOLOGY golfnews@easternshoregolf.net

Golf is an awesome game, beautiful in its mind-boggling demand for absolute focus. The drive off the first tee flies straight down the middle of the fairway and then the second drive slices into the woods. Three birdies in a row turns into bogey, bogey, quadruple bogey and the search for WHY can swing the pendulum either way. Rarely, in any sport or field of occupation, will you find a greater fluctuation in performance at every stage of development; this is why studying the miscues of the best athletes in the world may unlock a golden door to achievement.

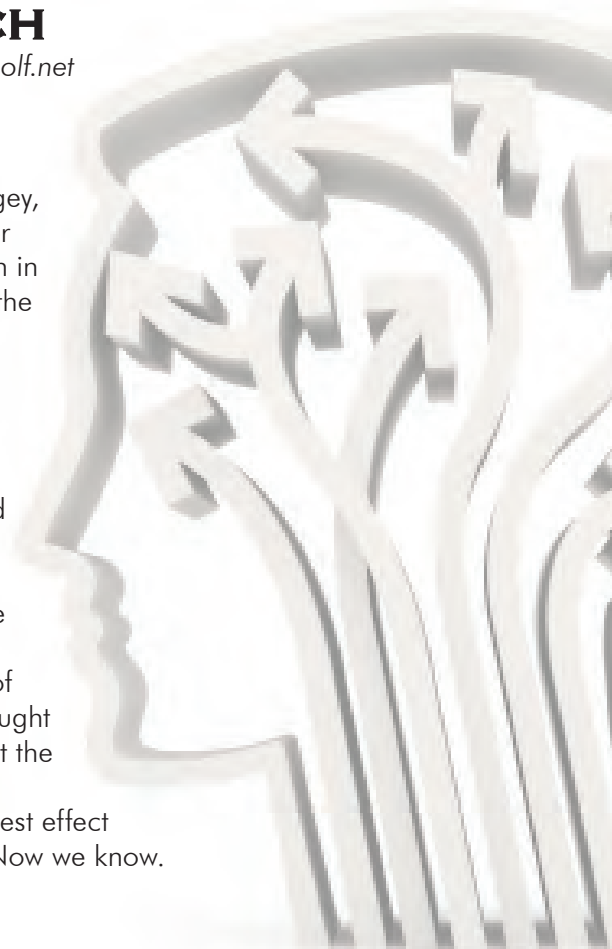

One year ago we celebrated Jordan Speith winning the Master's at twenty-one years old. This year we celebrate the insight gained because his performance challenges every golfer to look deeper into the mental aspect of competition.

A news service reportedly picked up Jordan Speith saying to his caddie "we're collapsing" as the spiral into second place unfolded. Speith specifically regretted not taking the ritual last deep breath before putting, and we see his mind spinning a little faster trying to gather in the confidence. That breath allows him to exhale the doubt, tunnel in on the task and open the conditioned response he practiced round after round. Without the pause, speed can kill.

If it's true that Speith carried the emotions of a poor showing on the back nine of the previous round over to Sunday and allowed them to occupy space in his thought process down the stretch, limiting the amount of attention available to execute at the highest level, then golf is a better game because of the example.

Elite athletes often credit the lessons learned from the errors as having the greatest effect on shaping performance. They expect to succeed; the failures open their eyes. Now we know.

YOU CAN TEACH A 'BULLDOG' NEW TRICKS!

Session 1

Discovery, Strengths & Weaknesses

Welcome to a new segment called "You Can Teach a Bulldog New Tricks!"

This article is a cooperative article written by me and everyone's favorite radio show host, Bulldog, the host of "The Rude Awakening Show" on Ocean 98. The show airs Monday through Friday from 6am-10am, just set your radio dial to 98.1 FM. I am fortunate enough to have the pleasure of helping Bulldog find his "A" game and also honored to call him a friend. So the next few issues we are going to track his progress and find out what he has done to reach his goal. We would love for you to share this journey with us! Currently he is starting the season with a 20 handicap. I believe we can get him down to a 12 in just a few months. We just had our first session and it was what I call our discovery session. That means that we have identified his strengths and weaknesses and suggested some drills and practice habits to get him over the hurdle. Bulldog has many strengths in his golf game, but his biggest strength is his determination. When he sets his mind on a goal he will do whatever it takes to get it accomplished. He also soaks up information like a sponge, very coach-able. Even with a demanding schedule, he carves out time to practice so that he can enjoy the game to his fullest capability. He also possesses a great weight transfer through the swing. This is one of the toughest parts of the game to teach and that is why I am confident we can cut his handicap in half! The challenges we face are all interconnected. One of his actions is causing three issues that are keeping him from being a consistent ball striker. His tendency is to pick the club up with his right side that causes his weight to shift outside his right foot and his spine and head to lean towards the target and ahead of the golf ball. This causes him to attack the ball too steep making his misses either fat shots or block/slices to the right. This one action is our main focus. To start we are going to have him take the club away with his chest rather than his hands and turn the club to the top allowing him to stay behind the ball. Stay tuned to see what happens in the next issue! Tune into Ocean 98 Tuesday mornings to hear Ray Taranto and Thursday mornings to hear my golf report!

"Can you really teach an old Bulldog new tricks? I sure hope so because I'm tired of my golf game in its current form."

"I'm guessing I'm just like every other 20 handicap. I can shoot an 87 one day and a 107 the next! When I do shoot my handicap and put up a 92 it sometimes means the 92 came from a 40-52. I'm tired of it! I want to be a golfer rather than a guy who plays golf. I want to be consistent and I want to learn how to do it right. I want to enjoy the game even more than I do now. So I hooked up with my good friends Steve Menz from the A Game Golf Academy and Ray Taranto from Eastern Shore Golf Magazine and I agreed to be the guinea pig for this challenge. Get this 20 handicap down to a 12 during the 2016 season."

"Most readers of Eastern Shore Golf Magazine probably feel the same way I do when you hit a good shot and that is, 'Why can't I just do that on every shot?' I'm pretty sure it has to do with commitment and practice. I'm committed to this and I will put in the practice. All Steve has to do is correct EVERY aspect of my game! Stay tuned and read each edition of the magazine and hopefully watch the progress as I find my 'A' game."

Steve Menz of 'A' Game & 'BULLDOG'!

TOOLS OF THE TRADE

BY STEVE MENZ

BODITRAK

HAVE YOU HEARD OF BODITRAK? It is the newest golf tech on the market and it is going to be a game changer! Finally a product has entered the market that addresses the biggest factor of the golf swing, the weight transfer. The BodiTrak system is a pressure sensitive mat that measures your percentages of balance and weight transfer throughout the golf swing through pressure mapping. This item pairs well with the V1 Pro video teaching aid to provide absolute evidence of where your golf swing can be out of sync. It also offers centeredness of pressure (CoP) graphics that are a sure fire way to get your distance maxed out! Here is how it came into existence. An inventor named Terry Hashimoto made a pressure sensitive mat that was originally used in medical procedures on beds to help prevent bed sores for those not capable of movement. He was in the process of creating a pressure sensing skull cap to research concussions when he was approached by a company wanting to use the application for golf. The BodiTrak was born. What does this mean? Finally we are able to see where the weight is located throughout the entire golf swing and now we are able to maximize your efforts. Syncing BodiTrak with a video program give you a complete understanding of how and when to transfer your weight properly and give you the distance of your dreams. There is only one place on the Delmarva Peninsula that has this ground breaking technology, and it is The "A" Game Golf Academy. Please see our ad in this issue to find out how you can get on Trak and find your "A" game!

YOU KNOW THE DRILL BY, STEVE MENZ

"Crispy Chips, No Scoops"

Having troubles hitting crisp chip shots? Give this drill a try! Next time you practice this shot, place a second golf ball about a club head width or about 4 inches directly in front of your original ball. Then hit the chip trying to chip the second ball as well. This action will help you keep the club going downward through the shot and hit your shot crisp. When you get out on the course just imagine the second ball is there and you will enjoy chipping once again!

YOUR PATH TO PAR

INSTRUCTOR THE ORIGINAL GOLF SCHOOL

>There are at least three keys to understanding your golf swing. They are: know what you want to do, know what you think you do, know what you actually do. Many people develop very effective and unique ways to make a golf swing. Lee Trevino, Zach Johnson, Jim Furyk, Calvin Peete, Bubba Watson just to name a few. The key is to understand the compatible factors of your technique and physique to develop a consistent technique.

>Consider the desire to establish a straight lead arm at address and maintain it through impact. This swing technique is evident in many of the greatest player's swings, from Byron Nelson to Rory McIlroy. The straight lead arm logically optimizes the arc and radius of the swing with minimal variability. The ability to repeat the swing motions affiliated with the straight lead arm become simplified, yielding power accuracy and consistency.

>Most players striving to incorporate the straight lead arm technique know what they want to do. But, often what they actually do is often counterproductive, creating tension in the hands, arm, and shoulder, and probably creating posture and alignment problems as well. When you see a top tournament player perform, especially when exhibiting a unique style, you can focus on the observable, but you cannot see the underlying factors of strength, flexibility, coordination developed through practice that make it all work.

>The fact is the straight lead arm is neither right nor wrong. It is a personal preference that must match your physical ability. Arm extension is a natural consequence of motion that will lead to full extension of the left and right arms at key points in the swing. One of the longest and straightest drivers in recent years is Lee Westwood. Former Ryder Cup captain and PGA champion, Lanny Wadkins, was one of the most accurate iron players of his era. Calvin Peete was the most accurate driver on tour for a decade. Harry Vardon, the greatest British player, reportedly had trouble in 36 hole matches because his afternoon tee shots landed in his morning round divots..

>They all flexed the lead arm during the swing. An even more compelling example is Tom Watson, who's very straight lead arm at age thirty was decidedly bent in his less flexible 50's. Remember, he nearly won The Open swinging with a flex in the lead arm at age 59. Watson adapted his technique from what he once did to what he could do now.

>Working with Tom Laddbush, a member at Salt Pond reaffirmed these observations. Tom flexes both arms at the top of his backswing and never fully extends through the ball. Increasing his lead arm extension seemed a simple improvement. It would be except an old baseball injury to his left elbow precludes this type of motion. Focusing on what he can do rather than the theoretical ideal, requires more emphasis on footwork, leg action, body motion, and tempo, allowing the arm swing to be natural within his personal limitations. Does it work? Tom has had two holes in one, since our day at the Original Golf School Lighthouse Sound last fall!

"THANK YOU"

DWAYNE PURNELL Memorial Golf Tournament

86 golfers played in the chilly, but sunny weather for Seaside Christian Academy's 2016 golf tournament. This annual event is held as a memorial in honor of Dwayne Purnell, former principal of Seaside Christian Academy. The tournament is also the school's largest fundraiser, raising almost $12,000 this year. Seaside Christian Academy is very blessed to have so many individuals and businesses who support the school and look forward to next year! Thank you and we will see you on links in April 2017.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR 2016 DONATIONS!
