THIS ISSUE DEDICATED TO RICK VAIL

At the end of 2019, the GlenRiddle Family lost one of our best team members since the club opened. Rick Vail was an amazing husband, loving father, brother and best friend you could ever ask for. He was a very productive, loyal employee and integral part of the day to day operation.

He was an ambassador for GlenRiddle and the game of golf itself. Rick offered his help and wisdom to his peers with life advice and support. A Jack of All Trades at the course, working just about every position, always with a smile on his face.

He will be missed dearly by friends, family and the many members of the club who have developed relationships with Rick over the past decade. We will all miss his calming presence, advice, laughter and love.

Rick, you and your family are in our thoughts and prayers. Karen, Mike & Ginger, Sam & Bryan, Rick meant so much to us at GlenRiddle and we cannot imagine how devastating this loss is to your family. Rick will be forever in our prayers and we know he is doing well up in heaven playing 18 holes a day. We love you Rick Vail, thank you for everything over the past decade.

Love,
GlenRiddle Golf Club Staff

SANTA'S FAVORITE EVENT OF THE YEAR - OCEAN PINES, MD

Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Eastern Shore, Inc. (BBBSES) held the 27th Annual Santa's Open Charity Golf Tournament sponsored by Delmarva Shorebirds. The long-standing tradition of bringing the area together for this cherished event took place at the Ocean Pines Golf and Country Club on Saturday, December 7th at 9:00 am.

Every holiday season, Delmarva comes together for the opportunity to put a smile on local children's faces through this tournament. Since 1992, Santa's Open has been a source of joy and community support for the local children and families facing adversity. Whether it be as golfers, sponsors, or in-kind supporters, the residents of the Eastern Shore showed-up and donated generously, all in the name of defending the potential of our future generations.

Tournament participants enjoyed a variety of competitions in addition to the 4-man scramble golf tournament. Competitions included hole in one, presented by Pohanka of Salisbury, where golfers attempted to hit a hole in one to win a vehicle. Participants also competed to be closest to hole, being awarded a bottle of spirits or gift cards to local establishments. Team Wankmiller came in first place gross and team Mears came in second place gross.

A huge thank you goes out sponsors, volunteers, staff, and BBBSES golf committee, who helped make the charity golf tournament exciting and successful.

BBBSES is an affiliate of Big Brothers Big Sisters of America. Services and programs are offered in Caroline, Dorchester, Kent, Queen Anne's, Somerset, Talbot, Wicomico, and Worcester counties.

HALL OF FAME

INDUCTEE

2019 Inductee SUSAN BOHAKER

- ▶ In recognition of Susan's teaching and coaching the game of golf in our local community and beyond for a period of close to forty years.
- ▶ Born in Chestertown MD, Susan grew up primarily in Portsmouth, VA where she began playing golf at Elizabeth Manor Golf Course when she was 16 years old. She then pursued her game as a member of the James Madison University Women's Golf Team from 1976-80.
- ▶ Her primary career has been teaching and coaching at all levels, as Susan has taught at the elementary through college ranks. During the 80's while teaching at Saints Peter and Paul, she was a member of Talbot CC and Harbortowne GC. She then spent six years in Harrisonburg, VA as the women's golf coach at James Madison University during which time she realized her love for working with kids and golf. For 13 summers she spent her summers serving as a coach at the Penn State University Junior Golf Camp as well as numerous camps throughout Virginia and Maryland.
- ▶ Susan returned to Easton in 1996, teaching at the Country School, during which time she joined the Easton Club and is currently a member at Hog Neck Golf Course. Upon retiring from teaching, she began working with kids after school daily, escorting them to local courses and working with them for an hour on the range and practice facilities, then heading out to the course for the second hour. She is also currently the golf and basketball coach for The Country School Middle School with 20 boys and girls on the golf team. They have divided the group into a travel team and a practice squad thus eliminating "cuts" and encouraging everyone to play golf.
- ▶ "The Golf Nanny" has become her title and for the past six years, has not only worked with local kids, but has also served as a caddy for some of her students in US Jr. Kids tournament throughout the East Coast as well as in Scotland. Susan is currently working with over 50 kids throughout the week introducing and helping them capture the excitement of playing golf. One day a week she runs her "Golf Extravaganza" for second through eighth graders. Up to 40 kids attend one of two, two and a half hour sessions. Numerous individuals assist her during these sessions including her co-worker from The Country School, Barry Cox, as well as numerous high school students whom she has worked with through the years.
- ▶ Susan states "Hog Neck has been absolutely fantastic in supporting me and encouraging the kids in pursuing the game of golf. This is a wonderful place for kids to learn the game as we not only have a great practice area consisting of chipping and pitching green, putting green and range, but especially a challenging nine hole Executive Course that has become "our" second home. GM/PGA Rich Setter of Hog Neck and his staff realize the importance of our youth playing this great game and go above and beyond in encouraging our efforts." James Apple states "I've seen the "Golf Nanny" in action for many years. The kids flock to her eager to learn and to play golf. She turns no one away and is quick with positive reinforcement in her coaching. I very strongly feel that Susan deserves consideration for induction into the Eastern Shore Golf Magazine Hall of fame for the class of 2019. As a Hall of Fame member I look forward to standing by her side as she receives a richly deserved honor."

HANDICAP 2019 VS HANDICAP 2020

Welcome to 2020! Happy New Year! This new year brings a brand-new handicap system that's been rolled out in the United States. Welcome the World Handicap System (WHS)! The first time you tee it up in 2020 there is a good chance your handicap will have changed without you even playing. What does that mean? This year the move has been made from 6 handicap systems worldwide to one uniting system. What changes can you expect to see? Our system will now count your best 8 out of 20 scores (formerly best 10 of 20 with a .96 multiplier). It will also make adjustments due to weather. This means it will take all the scores on a course on a particular day that are either higher or lower due to weather and make an adjustment for the day's score. It will now be easier to have a match with anyone from any tee box. The system will use the course slope, rating and par to provide an index for each tee. The new system will also monitor your scores to try to eliminate sand bagging. Try to remember that your handicap isn't what you average when you play. It is a number to show your playing potential. So, beating your handicap should become more difficult under the new system. Always remember to post every score on the day that you play because handicaps are now updated daily rather than every two weeks. You are also expected to post all scores. Say your round was rained out, if you played 13 holes or less, you should post a 9-hole score. If you get 14 holes in, you should use your handicap as it falls on the last 4 holes to determine your 18-hole score for that day. Equitable Stroke Control (ESC) is also a thing of the past. Now all scores will only be posted as high as net double bogey. Hopefully as long as everyone posts as they should all matches will be more competitive and fun. The future looks fun and fair!

JUDY KIGHT WAS ELECTED 2020 PRESIDENT...

for her second 1-year term this fall. From Baltimore, Judy was introduced to our chapter through the Pink Ribbon Classic Golf tournament in 2004. In 2016 Judy moved full time to Bishopville. She says "I would not have moved here without our golfing organization. The opportunity to play golf in such a welcoming environment was very important to me." Since moving here Judy has served as Marketing Director, Recruitment Director and now President. LPGA guidelines require the President to step down after 2 years of service allowing others to serve. Judy is committed to providing opportunities for women to play golf and encourages all to become actively involved in our chapter.

WOMEN'S PENINSULA

Happy New Year from The Women's Peninsula Golf Association, an organization of women who love to play golf. The WPGA was founded on March 9, 1954 and is currently composed of 23 member clubs on the DelMarVa Peninsula, for a total membership of 600 women.

Each year the WPGA recognizes the efforts of the officers of the ladies' leagues at these member clubs by sponsoring an annual tournament to thank them for all they do to support and oversee their league activities. This past year, the Officer Appreciation tournament was held at Wild Quail Country Club on September 17. Twenty of our member clubs participated, along with two teams of WPGA officers.

The WPGA welcomes this opportunity to publicly thank the following women for their enthusiastic dedication to the game of golf. These photos are presented alphabetically by club, identifying those teams who won the three gross and four net tournament prizes in the 2BB4 format. But no one went home empty handed - the WPGA expressed their appreciation by presenting gift certificates to all in attendance.

Casual...

A few years ago, I was sitting on the driving range at Augusta National watching the players warm up before their round in the Masters and noticed something a little different. There were more golf psychologists on the range than swing coaches. Typically, you will see some of the players with their swing coaches working out some kinks on the range, but not too many this time. Whether you're a professional playing for a living and playing in a "Major" tournament or you're a weekend golfer playing in your Club Championship, you have to overcome the distraction that this round is really important. Everyone gets tournament nerves to some extent. It's how you deal with them that determines the outcome. You can look at the nervous energy as something that frightens you or you can accept it as excitement. Imagine that first move over the top of a double black diamond ski slope. You're a bit nervous, but hey! This is going to be great! I could crash or I could have a great run. Enjoy the nervousness.

In golf, we must try hard, to not try hard. I know it's a contradiction, but that's our game. In football and other sports, you can run harder, hit harder, swing harder and do better. Not in golf. In golf, we do our best when we're in "casual" mode. Those golf psychologists were telling their players that this round of golf is no different than any other day on the course. The only difference is that you are telling yourself this is more important because it's a "Major". You create the pressure; you can remove it. The ball sitting on the grass in a major is no different than the ball sitting on the grass in a casual round other than the fact that you believe this is more important.

Well how can you be casual when you believe everything is on the line? Ask yourself one question, Will you be okay if you hit a bad shot? You're not going into surgery to have a tumor or limb removed. You're simply "playing" golf! Yes, we care, but in the scheme of things, you'll get over it. When you free yourself in that you're okay if it goes wrong, you free yourself to hit good shots.

To find your casual swing, when you arrive at the range, let the air out of your shoulders and arms. Shake them loose like a swimmer taking their mark in a swim meet. Now as if you're just tossing a ball back and forth with a buddy, make slow, casual turns to swing your arms and club. Take your time and feel the body swinging the loosened arms. Keep the lower tension level in your shoulders and arms the same through the swing. Feel the elasticity within your body as you casually transition from backswing into forward swing. Don't rush it. You should have a natural increase of speed through the bottom, not a forced sense of speed. Now try to commit to that casual swing throughout your round. Let a breath out before each swing, as part of your routine. Remember, no matter what is on the line, it's still a game.

"Play" it casually my friends!

GOLF PSYCHOLOGY SHORE UP! WITH THE GAME COACH

CARSON LOVETT, MA SPORT PSYCHOLOGY

2020 seems like the perfect time to emphasize vision. For golfers, vision goes far beyond eyesight and the familiar Standard Eye Exam used to quantify and prescribe corrections to improve the ability to see. Reading a putt, body alignment, target recognition and shot visualization are all heavily influenced by the athlete's Total Vision, and researchers believe Sports Vision Training may enhance such skills.

The following is a list of the critical visual skills a Game Coach and Performance Professional will help you develop.

DEPTH PERCEPTION – Proper yardage estimation and club selection.

EYE-BODY COORDINATION – Mastering the "Connection Theory," referring to the eye-hand-foot-body synchronization. Fixation Ability – Fine Focus techniques for accurate target assessment.

CONCENTRATION – Maintaining peak performance under varying conditions.

TRACKING – Strengthening the ability to shift focus far and near PERIPHERAL AWARENESS – Manipulating the relationship between the primary target and where the ball must travel to reach the goal.

VISUALIZATION – Goal-oriented Imagery Techniques.

Years spent perfecting the stance, developing an impeccable backswing, and a supernatural ability to consistently strike the ball on the sweet spot will set the golfer up for success on the course. However, visual errors can doom performance. Make time to address and strengthen your Total Vision.

Seeing is believing! Be sure your Total Vision sends an accurate message to the decision-making center of your brain.

THE MORAL: TRUST THE EXPERTS; YOU'LL SEE, 2020 LOOKS GREAT!

RICHARD ROBINSON

INSTRUCTOR THE ORIGINAL GOLF SCHOOL

GOLF HAS BEEN DESCRIBED AS A 'GOOD WALK SPOILED'

The physical and meditative flow of the natural act of walking, interrupted by periodic thoughts, expectations and actions of making a golf shot, can defeat your enjoyment of the walk and the game. But, golf is paradoxical in many respects. So consider 'good golf as a good walk revealed'.

WALKING REVEALS THE 'CROSS-WIRED' NATURE OF NEUROMUSCULAR CONTROL. WHEN WE STEP FORWARD WITH OUR LEFT FOOT, OUR RIGHT ARM SWINGS FORWARD SIMULTANEOUSLY ESTABLISHING OPPOSITIONAL BALANCE. AN EFFECTIVE RIGHT HAND THROWING MOTION INVOLVES STEPPING TOWARD THE TARGET WITH THE LEFT FOOT, AND THROWING WITH THE RIGHT HAND AND ARM. THIS NATURAL CROSSED MOTION CONNECTION IS KEY TO A GOOD GOLF SWING.

In walking, throwing, and the golf swing we sequentially transfer and balance our center of gravity. When walking we place one foot forward of our body then move our CENTER OF GRAVITY (COG) over the forward foot. The motion continues with subsequent steps as we progress forward. The golf swing motion balances our COG over the trail foot, then should transition the COG to the lead foot. Combined lateral and rotational motions create momentum and centrifugal force causing the arms to swing with no specific muscular effort. In fact, the more relaxed the arms, the faster they will swing. Additional force multipliers are the angles formed in the trail shoulder, arm and wrist. In a well timed swing, when the center of gravity stops moving and is balanced over the lead foot, the momentum, centrifugal force of the arm and club swinging, 'releases' the trail arm angles. Both arms fully extend just past impact with great power and speed. The good news is that all of this can happen reflexively. The value of understanding it is to simplify your thoughts and limit the effort to control your actions.

THE DESCRIPTION OF THE GOLF SWING AS 'TWO TURNS AND A SWISH', IS ACCURATE. IT CAN BE AS SIMPLE AND NATURAL AS WALKING, IN TERMS OF PHYSICAL EFFORT. TWO DRILLS CAN HELP ACQUIRE THE FEEL FOR THE SWING MOTION:

FEET TOGETHER SWING: Set up to swing with your feet together, heels touching, lead foot and knee angled toward the target. Keep knees flexed as if skiing. Make a backswing by turning your hips. Your arm triangle remains in front of your chest. Start the downswing with a lateral flexed knee motion, again as if skiing. You will notice this initiates an effortless rotation of the hips and arm swing through the ball and to the target, your trail knee moves to the target, touching the lead knee and your weight moves off the trail foot as if walking.

TARGET STEP DRILL: Start with feet together but initiate the down and through swing by taking a step toward the target with your lead foot. You will notice the 'step to the target' effortlessly releases the trail foot as all weight is transferred to and balanced over the lead foot.

The motion and speed of these drills should simulate your natural walking tempo. The first step to power is learning to use momentum, centrifugal force, leverage and tempo, not muscular effort and tension

YOU KNOW THE DRILL

BY STEVE MENZ

PUTTING - PUSH BACK, DRAG THROUGH

If you are looking to learn how to release the putter through the stroke here is a good stroke thought that will help. Try to push the putter head back in the backswing with your core or torso, then drag the putter grip through the stroke the same way. I first heard this tip from an old pro when I was just a kid and have heard it many times through the decades from some of the world's best players.

PUSH BACK, DRAG THROUGH.

NOW YOU KNOW THE DRILL!
